A CRANK EPISODE.

We are Getting up a Reputation.

Reno possesses a unique treasure of which, however, no other town in the State envies her. Besides her regular battalion of cranks in the Asylum, a crank or two turns up every day, desirous evidently of entering their proper regiment and companies under the command of the State. On Monday evening a stranger in Reno, named S. Wallheim, a gambler by profession, walked into the Arcade Hotel and registered, asking for a nice, cool room. The clerk accompanied him to the chamber, where the visitor explained that he was afflicted with asthma and consumption (both complaints in reality being imaginary) and that the Bay doctors had recommended the climate of Reno to him. He made the clerk open the transom so as to have no lower draft, and change the position of the bed so as to point north and south. After satisfying him, as he thought, the clerk started for the door, when Mr. Stranger called him back, and, pointing to the washstand, said: "How in the world do you expect I can sleep with that washstand facing east and west. Change it to north and south." The obliging employe did so and saw nothing more of his guest until train time next merning when he appeared, complaining that the climate of Reno could depart. After settling, the hems of his many admiring friends. skirt-tails vanished into the cars, and the clerk went up to the room occupied by his late guest, thinking that perhaps the bed had been turned upside down and the carpet reversed for esthetic effect. erty they are interested in. He only found the following effusion on the washstand, which was scientifically heading east and west, not varying by a single hair's breadth: "Lord have mercy on me a sinner."

[This was repeated seven times.]

"Whosoever will let him, come and take of the water of life freely.

A Good Deed.

With the exception of four, all of the gang of fourteen tramps were given employment on ranches around Reno. This is humanity. The perpetual order "move on" has too much of the wandering Jew to it to please humane people. While many undoubtedly of the tramps are idle and vicious, there are plenty among the crowds tramping along the railroad tracks who are the victims of dall times and misfortune. To condemn them all indiscriminately is a jadgment no christian or white man should be guilty of.

A Stock Deal.

A gentleman, who ought to know whereof he speaks, informed us vesterday that he was sure there was rich ore uncovered in the Sierra Nevada. Mackay did not come back from Europe merely for his health, nor Fair leave Washington for fun. The time for a deal has not yet arrived, but that it will come seems to be a settled fact. Brokers in San Francisco say that there is little or none of the north end stocks to be secured. It is laid away somewhere, they think downward grade. Down brakes was in the vaults of the Nevada Bank. The whistled but could not prevent a collisdisaster to the Alta pumps will retard operations greatly, and an expenditure of $300,000 will be necessary before the mine is ready for business again. That matters are shaping themselves for a deal, however, is the general opinion.

A Card of Usefulness and Information.

One of the cutest time fares and freight tables ever gotten up is the new one of Moylert and Hughes, proprietors of the daily stage and mail line to all points north. It is a great credit to whoever suggested the idea. The fares, freights, and distances between towns are all laid down on the chart in the clearest manner and in a most succinct style. At the bottom appears the old and popular name of W. R. Chamberlain, mine host of the Depot Hotel, who is the efficient agent of this stage line.

"Ye-yes, miss," stammered the drummer. He wasn't in the habit of playing pitcher in this kind of a match, and the visiting his sister, Mrs. M. Nathan. He position as catcher didn't fit him as tight as his pantaloons.

"Nice weather for traveling," continued the girl, "much nicer than when it is cold. Are you perfectly comfortaable?"

"Oh, yes; thanks!" murmured the drummer.

"Glad of it ," resumed the girl, cheerfully. "You don't look so. Let me put my shawl under your head, won't you? Hadn't you rather sit next the window, evening from Virginia and will remain and have me describe the landscape to you?"

"No, please," he mustered, "I-I'm doing well enough.'

"Can't I buy you some peanuts, or a book? Let me do something to make your trip happy! Suppose I slip my arm around your waist! Just lean forward a trifle so I can!''

"You'll-you'll have to excuse me!" -grasped the wretched drummer. "I -I don't think you really mean it!"

"You look so tired," she pleaded, 'wouldn't you like to rest your head on my shoulder? No one will notice. Just lay your head right down and I'll tell you stories.'

"No-no, thanks! I won't to-day! I'm very comfortable, thank you!'' and the poor drummer looked helpiess. "'Your scarf-pin is coming out. Let me fix it. There!" and she arrayed it deftly. "At the next station I'll get you a cup of tea, and when we arrive at our destination you'll let me call on you?" and she smiled an anxious prayer right up into his pallid countenance.

"I think I'll go away and smoke," said the drummer, and hauling down his gripsack, he made for the door, kneedeep in the grins showered around him

"Strange!" murmured the girl to the lady in front of her. "I only did with him just what he was making ready to do with me, and, big and strong as he is, he couldn't stand it. I really think that women have stronger stomachs than men, and besides that there isn't any smoking car for them to fly to for refuge. I don't understand this

But she settled back contentedly all the same; and at a convention of drummers, held in the smoker that morning, it was unanimously resolved that her seat was engaged, so far as they were concerned for the balance of the season.

Bails on a Circus Tour.

Last Monday evening an excursion tion at six o'clock, returning at about midnight. When nearly ten miles from here an iron car, loaded with rails, was observed standing on the track, while the train was going at full speed on a ion. Mr. Robert Hoy and friend were sitting on the flat car in front, the train being reversed, and both gave a jump, tumbling head over heels in the adjoin ing sand banks. It was a fortunate escape, for the flat struck the iron car and the rails thirty feet long were pitched about, just like so many lead pencils. Thirty feet of a tumble renders a steel rail slightly dangerous, and the men who somersaulted blessed their stars as they saw, at a safe distance, a couple of heavy rails crush the seat ou which they had sat.

There is lots of fun floating in the air. The Journal's item of yesterday entire institution. The parade will take has aroused several of Reno's dermant shooters and now the atmosphere is morning. The financial success of the alive with rumors of matches and friendly contests. Spider is pluming up his old war feathers and shaking himself for battle. This is all just as it should be. Reno must take the cake for shooting at the coming contests with other riflemen, and the only way to bring this about is to excite emulation among our local shots themselves. Spider can hit a tack at thirty-six feet-who can strike an invisible pin-head at the same distance? Leno's famous shots are entitled to the floor.

Electrical Visitor.

During the thunder storm Tuesday F. C. Updike's kitchen was filled with electricity. A cracking sound was heard as if a fire was burning. Mrs. Updike received a severe shock by lifting a poker. The strangest part of the whole affair was the straightening of a coil of wire, which must have been wound around fifty times. When the lightning left it it was as straight as a line. 1 No damage was done by the strange visitant.
